Declaration Confirming Inventor's Assignment of Invention to Employer

Sir:

I, Charles Silberberg Esq., do hereby declare that:

1. I am an officer at The Boeing Company ("Boeing").
2. Boeing is a successor-in-interest to Rockwell International Corporation ("Rockwell").
3. Upon information and belief, the inventor assignment documentation for the above-identified patent was not recorded with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office ("PTO").
4. Upon information and belief, a search for the inventor assignment documentation for the above-identified patent was duly performed but did not result in such documentation being found.
5. Upon information and belief, the inventor for the above-identified application, namely, Isoris S. Gergis, was an employee of Rockwell when he invented the subject matter patented in the above-identified patent.
6. Upon information and belief, Gergis invented the subject matter patented in the above-identified patent in the ordinary course of his employment with Rockwell.

7. Upon information and belief, at the time when Gergis invented the subject matter patented in the above-identified patent, Rockwell had a written employment policy in effect that provided that Rockwell owned all rights to and in inventions created by Rockwell employees in the ordinary course of their employment by Rockwell.

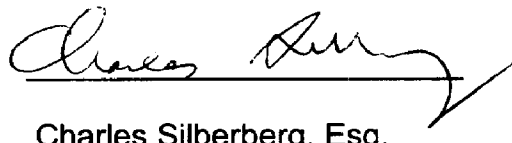

8. As Gergis's employment at Rockwell was subject to the provisions of Rockwell's written employment policy, all of Gergis's rights in and to the subject matter patented in the above-identified patent effectively were assigned to Rockwell in accordance with the provisions of Rockwell's written employment policy.

9. Boeing, as Rockwell's successor-in-interest, confirms that all of Gergis's rights in and to the subject matter patented in the above-identified patent were effectively assigned to Rockwell in accordance with the provisions of Rockwell's written employment policy.

I hereby declare that all statements made herein of my own knowledge are true and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true; and further that these statements were made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like so made are punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under Section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code, and that such willful false statements may jeopardize the validity the above-identified patent.
