UPDATED COMPANY DISCLOSURE SCHEDULE

This Updated Disclosure Schedule (this "Updated Company Disclosure Schedule") is being delivered by Mediabolic, Inc, a Delaware corporation (the "Company"), to modify, qualify and supplement the representations and warranties contained in the Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of December 20, 2006 (the "Agreement"), by and among the Company, Macrovision Corporation, a Delaware corporation, Mammoth Acquisition Corp., a Delaware corporation and Representatives named therein. Unless otherwise defined herein, capitalized terms, for all purposes of this Company Disclosure Schedule, shall have the meanings set forth in the Agreement.

The schedule numbers in this Company Disclosure Schedule correspond to the section numbers of the Agreement; provided that any matter disclosed pursuant to one schedule or sub-schedule of the Agreement is deemed disclosed for all other Schedules or sub-schedules of this Company Disclosure Schedule if such matter relates to more than one schedule or sub-schedule of the Agreement and if the level of particularity or manner of disclosure of the matter expressly disclosed in one Schedule or sub-schedule of this Company Disclosure Schedule permits a reasonable person to find such disclosure relevant to such other Schedules or sub-schedules. The cross-referencing of disclosures herein shall not imply that such cross-referenced disclosure is inapplicable to other schedules, to the extent consistent with the preceding sentence, nor shall the failure to cross-reference any particular disclosure imply that such disclosure is inapplicable to a schedule where it is not cross-referenced.

The headings contained in this Company Disclosure Schedule are included for convenience only, and are not intended to limit the effect of the disclosures contained herein. The inclusion of any matter(s) in this Company Disclosure Schedule shall not imply any representation, warranty, covenant or undertaking not expressly given in the Agreement nor shall such disclosure be taken as extending the scope of any of the representations, warranties or covenants in the Agreement. Nothing in this Company Disclosure Schedule shall (i) constitute an admission of liability or obligation of the Company to any third party, (ii) a determination by the Company that such matter(s) are material to the Company's business, assets, results of operations or affairs, nor (iii) an admission against the Company's interest.

Schedule 3.13
(Intellectual Property)

Section 3.13(a) & (c)

The Company represents and warrants that it has paid appropriate license fees for all off the shelf software used by the Company in the operation of the Business and not distributed or included or incorporated in the Company Products and Services. The Company makes no other representation or warranty regarding such off the shelf software.

The Company has not performed a search of whether any of its products or services infringe the patents of third parties.

See attachment -- 'Third Party IP' -- The Company maintains licenses adequate for the Company to engage in the internal development of its software products and to provide the services currently offered by the Company. However, sale and license of the Company's software and Company IP Rights to any third party, and the required sublicense of that software by those third parties to end users generally requires such third party to separately license some or all of the third party intellectual property listed on this list. The Company's representations in 3.13(c) are limited to the extent that the Company cannot ensure that such third parties have obtained such licenses listed on the 'Third Party IP' list.

See Section 3.12 regarding License Agreements under which the Company has not obtained consent in the Merger.

Section 3.13(c): In early 2003, Ucentric Systems sent a letter to the Company claiming that the Company infringed one of its patents. The Company and its outside patent counsel investigated the patent and determined that the best course of action would be to wait for further action by Ucentric. To date Ucentric has not made any other claims or sent any other correspondence and has not filed any suit against the Company.

In 2003 the Company entered into a license agreement with a customer, which was later terminated prior to any product being developed for that licensee, with the other company retaining no rights to use the Company's software under the terms of the settlement agreement and release entered into between the parties. In April of 2004 the Company noticed that this company's press and marketing materials for one of its products included pictures of a product bearing the Company's logo. The Company did not authorize the use of its logo for this purpose and sent a notice to the other company, who promptly removed the logo from its materials. No further action was pursued by the Company.

In addition, in 2003, the Company and DLink Systems, Inc. entered into a License Agreement for development of software for DLink. Disputes arose as to the delivery dates for that software, and the Company sent a written notice of breach to DLink. The parties subsequently signed a mutual release that released both parties from all liability under that agreement.

The Company received a notice from Thomson that it was required to enter into a license agreement for development of products using MP3 technology. The Company subsequently entered into a license with Thomson, a copy of which was provided or made available to Macrovision.

Section 3.13(e): With respect to trade secrets and protection of Company-Owned IP Rights and other proprietary rights, the Company's offices are on a floor which requires key card access, with keys controlled by the office management, and has the security and protection steps described in the attachments 'Mediabolic Security Policy' and 'Mediabolic Password Policy.'

The Company does not maintain a sign-in or other record of visitors, nor are visitors required to wear name badges or other identification while at the Company premises. The Company often has engineers or other personnel from its customers or partners who receive extended training and/or work on a supervised or unsupervised basis for extended periods at the Company's offices.

For disclosure purposes only and without limiting the Company's representation in the Agreement, while the Company maintains confidentiality agreements with the Companies employing such personnel, the Company takes no special precautions to ensure that such personnel are not exposed to the products of other customers, the Company's IP Rights not licensed by these customers or other trade secrets or proprietary or other information of the Company or its customers or partners. For disclosure purposes only and without limiting the Company's representation in the Agreement, the Company establishes code names for each project, and attempts to use them in all written engineering materials. However, due to the small size and open floor plan of the Company, it is not always possible to keep these names from being seen or heard by these visitors.

Certain of the Company's consultants and partners are employed in countries where enforcement of the Company's contracts and statutory intellectual property rights may be difficult and/or expensive. Such companies may have access to the Company's source code or other significant trade secrets. See Magellan and Lohika Agreements.
