LEGAL MEMORANDUM

Re: U.S. Patent Application of Shingo KATAOKA
Serial No. 11/434,516
Title: LIQUID CRYSTAL DISPLAY DEVICE AND METHOD OF MANUFACTURING THE SAME

Yasuo Kitamura declares:

I am an attorney at law legally admitted and registered in Japan.

I reviewed the Declaration of Makoto Ohashi submitted herewith (the “Ohashi Declaration”) and the documents as follows (the “Related Documents”):

- (1) the documents cited as Exhibit 1 through 7 in the Ohashi Declaration,
- (2) the decision, dated February 22, 2007 on the application above mentioned from the United States Patent and Trademark Office, and
- (3) the Stock, Equipment and Intellectual Property Purchase Agreement, dated April 11, 2005, among Fujitsu Limited (“Fujitsu”), Fujitsu Display Technology
Corporation (“FDTC”), Fujitsu Laboratories Limited and Sharp Kabushiki Kaisha (“Sharp”).

Assuming that the Ohashi Declaration is true and accurate, and that all of the Related Documents are duly executed by those who are authorized, I recognize that the rights to obtain patents for the invention in question in Japan and foreign countries have been transferred from Mr. Shingo Kataoka, the inventor in question, to FDTC, and that subsequently as a result of a merger and a transfer, Sharp now legally has these rights. I am confident that these rights for Sharp to obtain patents in Japan and foreign countries relating to the patent application in question would be legally certified by a Japanese court with proper jurisdiction regarding this case, acting under its powers.
