Article 3
Maintenance, Defence of the Patent

1. In case that any party is not furthermore interested in the maintenance of the Patent in one or more countries it will notify the other party accordingly. After receipt of such notice the party not interested in the maintenance of the Patent shall assign its shares in the Patent in the respective countries to the other party. From then on such other party shall bear the full costs related to the maintenance of the Patent in such countries and the party having assigned its shares shall not be entitled to receive any revenues derived from the Patent in such countries after such assignment. The party having assigned its shares will retain immunity under the Patent for any use in its own business operations in such countries.
