AMENDMENT

TO

A PATENT SHARING AGREEMENT

BETWEEN

MIKSA MARTON AND STEVE SIMON (LIGNA)

(Signed on May 9th, 2011.)

Miksa Marton and Steve Simon (Ligna) further agree that:

Marton, with his 80% of voting rights, is free to decide whether to sell and/or license any patent, which was paid for by Ligna, or authorize his own company, Dualflex, to manufacture the patented products, without paying any patent fees to Marton.

If Marton decides on the Dualflex option, Ligna has two choices:

1. Fund the cost of manufacturing of such product and receive 50% of the revenue from the sale of such product;
2. Decline to invest and receive a fee of 2.5% of the revenue from the sale of such product.

In case Ligna decides not to invest, Dualflex will pay Ligna's fee, as described under (2) above, into a separately kept account, as and when payments are received by Dualflex, and will transfer the funds to Ligna at the end of each financial quarter.

Dated this 6th day of September, 2011
