In case of an unlimited/limited claim, the enclosed confirmation of receipt (Enclosure A) must be signed by the inventor!

¹ An unlimited claim of a service invention means that all rights in the service invention shall pass to the employer and that the employer must apply for domestic industrial property protection at the German Patent Office, except in the case of a different agreement with the employee.

² A limited claim of a service invention means that the employer obtains a non-exclusive right to use the service invention. The employer is not obliged to apply for domestic industrial property protection at the German Patent Office. To the contrary the right for applying for domestic industrial property protection belongs to the employee. In case industrial property rights arise from such an application, the employee has no right to forbid the employer to use of the service invention.

³ If the invention is not claimed (i.e. released) the inventor has all the rights to the invention.
