WHEREAS, Assignor desires to assign any and all right, title and interest to the Invention; any original, continuation, continuation-in-part, divisional, international, foreign, regional and convention design or patent applications based on or arising from the Invention; any and all registrations and patents thereto, which may grant or have granted thereto or be lodged in relation thereto; any reissue or reexamination thereof or to be obtained therefor; any renewal or substitute thereof; any and all priority rights, priority claims, or International Convention rights thereof; any and all rights to collect past damages for infringement of any and all patent, design, or other intellectual property rights arising from or related to the Invention, including for any patents and design registrations, which may be published, which may grant, or have granted thereto or be lodged in relation thereto; and any other benefit accruing to or to accrue to Assignor by filing or obtaining patent, design, or other intellectual property rights for the Invention in any country or region (the "IP Rights"); and
