Combined Assignment and Declaration Statement for Patent Application

Inventor Signing Instructions

Congratulations for being an inventor in the invention identified in the Assignment and Declaration form set forth below.

Changes to US Patent Laws, effective September 16, 2012, allow inventors to file an Assignment with the United States Patent Office in lieu of a separate Declaration when filing a new patent application. By combining these documents into a single paper, the administrative burden is reduced for all involved, paper and filing requirements are reduced, and the single paper additionally provides certain benefits should the application be filed in countries outside the United States.

When executing and dating the Assignment and Declaration, please confirm that your legal name is correct. If needed, please make any corrections to your name or address as needed before printing out this document for signature. If you're signing an already printed form, corrections may be made by lining through your name or address, handwriting the correct information, and writing your initials and date next to the correction.

Additionally, prior to executing the Assignment and Declaration, you are required to (1) review and understand the contents of the application, including the claims; and (2) be aware of the duty to disclose to the United States Patent and Trademark Office any information you are aware of that is material to the patentability of the patent application referenced in the assignment and Declaration (as defined in 37 CFR Section 1.56). Should you not understand what is required, please contact the attorney you're working with for clarification.

Please return a scanned copy of the executed documents to the sender by email, fax a copy to (713) 623-4846, or email to smcfadden@pattersonsheridan.com as soon as possible as late filings of documents may result in additional government fees for this filing.

Thank you for your cooperation.
