RE: Invention Disclosure 06-0322, U.S. Patent 8,611,260, Systems and Methods for Distance Estimation Between Electronic Devices

Dear Dr. Yang, Dr. Sun, Mr. Xiao & Mr. Liu:

As a follow up to my conversations with Dr. Yang and Dr. Sun, the Office for Research and Economic Development has decided not to move forward with the maintenance on the above referenced Intellectual Property (IP). In accordance with the IP Policy, you may request the disclosed technology be released to you by signing, dating, and returning this letter agreement to the IPED office. We will then obtain the authorizing signature of President Dooley necessary to effect the release. Upon execution of this letter agreement by President Dooley, the Rhode Island Council on Postsecondary Education, statutory successor to the Rhode Island Board of Education thereby releases all intellectual property rights and ownership rights, except for the non-exclusive rights to non-commercial academic use of the disclosed technology and any rights necessary to comply with federal or legal obligations.

You agree that, should you receive any fees or royalties resulting from the license or sale of the subject intellectual property rights, or from the sale of products covered by these rights (collectively, "Compensation"), you will reimburse the University for all related legal expenses it incurred through June 30, 2017 and a royalty of five percent (5%) of Compensation, provided that such reimbursement and royalty is no more than one-half of your Compensation per calendar year.

Please further note that if you choose to continue with the maintenance of the patent, the 3 1/2 year maintenance fee is due to the USPTO on June 20, 2017 with extensions till December 18, 2017 with extension fees.

This release is limited to the specific technology referenced above. Please be mindful that any independent commercialization opportunities may not utilize URI resources. If you advance the technology with appreciable URI resources, compliance with the IP Policy would require submission of a new disclosure.

By signing, dating, and returning this letter agreement to the IPED office you agree to the terms herein.
