INVENTION means the invention with the title „Getriebeelement sowie Stellantrieb mit einer Rückstellfeder und mit einer selbstentriegelnden Getriebearretierung“ and Siemens-reference 2017E24762CH.

RESULTING IPR means intellectual property rights (IPR) in the INVENTION, including but not limited to IPR in the patent applications US16/514,682; EP1818484.1; CN201910654446.9; with title

German: „Getriebeelement sowie Stellantrieb mit einer Rückstellfeder und mit einer selbstentriegelnden Getriebearretierung“
English: „Transmission element and actuating drive with a return spring and with a self-unlocking gear lock“

For the avoidance of doubt, future divisional patent applications or continuations are also meant to including in the resulting IPR.

Preamble

INVENTOR and co-inventor (Andreas Pally employee of ASSIGNEE) have made the INVENTION in the execution of a development project at ASSIGNEE for which ASSIGNEE had contracted ASSIGNOR.

According to the contract between ASSIGNEE and ASSIGNOR (CONTRACT), ASSIGNOR is obliged to deliver to ASSIGNEE any RESULTING IPR.

Therefore, the parties declare as follows.

INVENTOR confirms that he has assigned his part of the RESULTING IPR, as well as of any right of priority and of any right that has arisen from past infringement by anyone else, for instance a right to compensation, in connection therewith, to ASSIGNOR. ASSIGNOR confirms that it has accepted the assignment.

ASSIGNOR confirms to have assigned under the CONTRACT the same to ASSIGNEE, which ASSIGNEE confirms to have accepted.

ASSIGNOR and ASSIGNEE each acknowledge that the latter assignment has been for good and valuable consideration, that the consideration is subject to value added tax and that the consideration has been received by ASSIGNOR.

Furthermore, ASSIGNOR and ASSIGNEE each may apply for recordal of the latter assignment in the applicable office register and may produce this document or a copy thereof as is required there for.
