To Whom it May Concern

Under section 39(1) of the UK Patents Act 1977 it is provided that:

39 Right to employees' inventions.

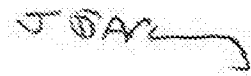

Notwithstanding anything in any rule of law, an invention made by an employee shall, as between him and his employer, be taken to belong to his employer for the purposes of this Act and all other purposes if

(a) it was made in the course of the normal duties of the employee or in the course of duties falling outside his normal duties, but specifically assigned to him, and the circumstances in either case were such that an invention might reasonably be expected to result from the carrying out of his duties; or

(b) the invention was made in the course of the duties of the employee and, at the time of making the invention, because of the nature of his duties and the particular responsibilities arising from the nature of his duties he had a special obligation to further the interests of the employer's undertaking.

The invention of GB1519251.1, PCT/GB2016/053360 and US15/771895 was developed in the course of normal duties of Kenneth McCorkindale. Accordingly, the rights to this invention reside with the inventor's employer in accordance with Section 39 (1) (a) of the UK Patents Act 1977.

Yours Faithfully

UK Chartered Patent Attorney

Enc: Section 39 UK Patents Act 1977

Patents Act 1977

1977 CHAPTER 37

PART I

NEW DOMESTIC LAW

Employees' inventions

39 Right to employees' inventions.

- (1) Notwithstanding anything in any rule of law, an invention made by an employee shall, as between him and his employer, be taken to belong to his employer for the purposes of this Act and all other purposes if—
- (a) it was made in the course of the normal duties of the employee or in the course of duties falling outside his normal duties, but specifically assigned to him, and the circumstances in either case were such that an invention might reasonably be expected to result from the carrying out of his duties; or
 - (b) the invention was made in the course of the duties of the employee and, at the time of making the invention, because of the nature of his duties and the particular responsibilities arising from the nature of his duties he had a special obligation to further the interests of the employer's undertaking.
- (2) Any other invention made by an employee shall, as between him and his employer, be taken for those purposes to belong to the employee.

- [^{F1}(3) Where by virtue of this section an invention belongs, as between him and his employer, to an employee, nothing done—
- (a) by or on behalf of the employee or any person claiming under him for the purposes of pursuing an application for a patent, or
 - (b) by any person for the purpose of performing or working the invention,
- shall be taken to infringe any copyright or design right to which, as between him and his employer, his employer is entitled in any model or document relating to the invention.]
