STATEMENT REGARDING OWNERSHIP OF INVENTOR SALANNE'S RIGHTS IN THIS APPLICATION

Inventor Jean-Philippe Hervé SALANNE was employed by Applicant, SAFRAN, prior to and during the invention of the subject matter of this application. SAFRAN is based in Paris, France. Under French law, inventions made by employees are regulated by Article L611-7 of the French "Code de la propriété intellectuelle," which states that if the inventor is under an employment contract, the right to any IP title, unless some specific contractual arrangements that are more favorable to the employee were made (which is not the case for this application) - inventions made by the employee during execution of either his employment contract which comprises an inventive mission that corresponds to his effective functions, or studies and researches that are explicitly assigned to him, belong to the employer.

To summarize, under French law, the rights to this application (and the rights to file) directly belong to the employer (SAFRAN), and in fact never belonged to the inventor/employee Jean-Philippe Hervé SALANNE.
